Complex to honor city zoning laws

Apartments will reduce occupancy

By JEFF McCOMBS
City editor

Mike Henneman, of Champaign's Henneman, Raufeisen and Associates, is working with city officials to reach an agreement regarding the number of occupants in the Royal Heights Apartments, 1509 Second St.

The 24-unit apartment building, which was completed in August, was zoned to allow three occupants per unit. Each unit, however, currently has five members living in it.

Charleston City Attorney John Dively Jr. sent Henneman a letter asking for a resolution to the number of occupants in each unit by Jan. 20 or legal action would be taken.

"We have been in contact with them," Henneman said. "We are re-leasing for next fall—Aug. 15."

Henneman said his firm would comply with the city's request of having only three occupants per unit.

"That is what we are maintaining," Henneman said.

Henneman said he did not know of any action being taken against him, such as a fine. He noted, "We are not planning any action against them."

Dively said it was a sensitive issue and would not comment.

The students currently living in the apartment complex supposedly are safe from being evicted. Henneman said he would honor the students' contracts.

The apartment complex was built with the intentions of having five people per unit, Henneman said, and the city approved that. When the building was completed, however, the city changed its mind, Henneman said.

Henneman, and co-owners Rick Schmidt and Gary Kling, asked for a variance at an October Charleston Board of Zoning Appeals and Planning meeting which asked that the zoning

Simon's supporters plan Iowa trip

BILL LOOBY
Staff writer

Eastern Students for presidential candidate Paul Simon are packing up and heading for Iowa.

Friday afternoon, 12 students are leaving for DeWitt, Iowa, to do last-minute campaigning for the Democratic presidential hopeful. The Iowa caucus is Monday.

The students will be working out of Simon's Clinton County campaign office. The office is being run by former Eastern student Chris Weason, said University Democrats President John Cosenza.

"This is the biggest weekend in the campaign," Cosenza said.

Students will be canvassing door-to-door, passing-out literature, answering phones and "trying to get people to vote," Cosenza said.

Eight of the 12 person contingent heading for Iowa are members of University Democrats.

"I have been working on the campaign for three months and I think his (Simon's) chances are very good," Cosenza said. "We need the people in Iowa."

Junior Dean Styx, political science major, said, "If he (Simon) doesn't do good in early primaries, he is in trouble."

Styx, who is from the Quad City area, said he is going because, "Iowa is close to where we are (Illinois)."

Styx noted he had done "some canvassing" in Iowa over Christmas break.

Senior Joe Martin, former president of University Democrats, said he is a member of Simon's Bow-Tie Brigade. The brigade is an organization of Simon loyalists.

Martin said he going to Iowa because Iowa is very important for Simon to win.

Martin and Styx disagreed on Simon's main competition in Iowa.

Martin said that U.S. Rep. Richard Gephardt is the top nemesis of Simon, while Styx said former U.S. Sen. Gary Hart would be the main opposition.

He noted he is going to Iowa to "do anything I can to help him (Simon) get off on the right foot."

Chair agrees on board's removal

By JEFF BRITT

Apportionment Board guiding committee members and the Student Publications coordinator agree that publications should be removed from AB jurisdiction, but they don't agree on the circumstances.

Dale Righter of the AB guiding committee believes Student Publications can cover the $77,000 it is used to getting from student fees if it was displaced from AB jurisdiction.

Student Publications Coordinator John David Reed agrees but said the loss of funds would hurt the Warbler, which relies on $44,000 of the $77,000 Student Publications receives in Student Fees.

The Daily Eastern News, because it wouldn't have to give up 30 percent of its profit to the AB revenue-sharing reserve, would be able to make up the $33,000 difference, but the Warbler would have to be subsidized by students, said Reed, who is journalism chair.

“I think even though we do give them $77,000, and that's no small amount of money, they can make it up,” Righter said.

Righter and Tim Gorman are part of the guiding committee pair that works with Student Publications.

“Student Publications as a whole can support both the newspaper and the Warbler,” he said.

“He (Righter) said in his report Student Publications should be removed from the rest of the AB and I agree with it,” Reed said.

Although Righter says Student Publications would be able to compensate for the $77,000 on its own, it would lead to an increase in students' fee for the Warbler to make up

NAACP head tries to remove banner

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Law officers arrested Alabama NAACP President Thomas Reed and 10 other black leaders on Tuesday when they tried to climb a fence around the Capitol to take down the Confederate battle flag flying over the dome.

Reed, a state representative from Tuskegee, led a group of several dozen blacks to a driveway gate where Reed talked to state troopers for almost 20 minutes before attempting to climb the 8-foot high fence.

“I consider myself not violating the law of this state,” Reed said. After officers grabbed Reed by the collar and pulled him down from the fence, other members of his group, among them national NAACP board member Emmett Burns, attempted to climb over but were also restrained.

“We are under arrest,” state Rep. John Rogers of Birmingham said as he entered the bus. The charges were not immediately known.

Earlier, as crowds had gathered for the march, sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, local and state law enforcement officers set up barricades and confiscated an ax handle.

Thompson says tax hike coming

CHICAGO—Gov. James R. Thompson on Tuesday predicted a consensus on a state income-tax increase will develop in the General Assembly as lawmakers look for money to finance education and other programs during the coming session.

Thompson reiterated his support for a "modest" tax increase when he spoke to reporters after addressing the first-ever joint meeting of the State Board of Education and the Board of Higher Education.

"I don't know yet" how much the increase will be, he said, "because I don't know yet what the people of Illinois are willing to spend on their future."

AIDS strikes high school teacher

CAROL STREAM—A veteran teacher stricken with AIDS will be allowed to work, but he will be kept out of the classroom, say school-district officials in this Chicago suburb.

The teacher, who was not identified, has taught in District 87 for 17 years. He has been away from his job at Glenbard North High School on sick leave for several months, said Superintendent Robert C. Stevens.

The instructor's condition was revealed publicly at a news conference Monday, although teachers, students and parents were informed earlier.

Principal Bert Weber said district officials learned about the teacher's condition about two weeks ago. He had been ill for several months before AIDS was diagnosed.

Hostage crisis ends in Alabama; gunman wanted to aid homeless

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—A gunman was taken into custody and 26 children and a teacher who were held hostage in a day-long siege at a private school were released Tuesday night, police told the children's parents.

"It's over," said Assistant Chief of Police Billy Wilkins. He said the kids were "all right."

The gunman, who was identified by police as James L. Harvey of San Antonio, Texas, said he wanted to help the homeless. Harvey held more than 30 children and two teachers hostage at a private school Tuesday but released others as a news reporter heard his plea and Gov. Guy Hunt sent a taped message.

"There are people on the street who don't have a place to sleep or anything to eat. I'm doing this for them," Harvey said as he held a rifle in a hallway of West End Christian School. "This is a political act, not a criminal act."

Harvey made his comments to Associated Press reporter Hoyt Harwell several hours after invading the school's elementary division building and taking about 80 children hostage along with four teachers and an assistant.

Earlier, the gunman had sent a request for the AP staffer to enter the school building and hear his case to help "get my message out." Nine children were released by the gunman after Harwell entered the building and heard the man's statements.

Several officers wrestled the gunman to the concrete immediately outside the door to the elementary school building.

Newspaper staffer becomes link

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—When heads were counted during the hostage siege at The Robesonian newspaper, reporter Raymond Godfrey was nowhere to be found. He had slipped away during the confusing early minutes and hidden in a darkened office.

During the next 10 hours Godfrey would become a vital link to Gov. Jim Martin's office, which was negotiating the release of 17 people taken hostage Monday by two armed American Indians who said they were protesting the death of a black jail inmate.

Hostages were released throughout the day until the last seven were freed and Eddie Hatcher, 30, and Timothy Jacobs, 19, members of the Tuscarore faction of the Lumbee Indians, surrendered at 8 p.m.

Hatcher and Jacobs appeared Tuesday before U.S. Magistrate Wallace Dixon in Raleigh, who set a probable cause hearing Feb. 12 on the charges of hostage-taking and possession of a sawed-off shotgun.

How To GET To CHICAGO WITHOUT SPINNING YOUR WHEELS.

Getting to Chicago during the winter can be frustrating, if not impossible. But not if you take Amtrak.

After all, our trains run in all kinds of weather.

And instead of tensing up behind the wheel, you can just sit back in one of our roomy, reclining seats. Have a tasty snack or beverage on board.

Our low price won't put you in a spin, either. It's only $20.25 each way, based on the round-trip excursion fare.

Amtrak leaves Mattoon for Chicago at 7:24 AM and 6:03 PM every day.

Some restrictions may apply. For more information, call your travel agent or Amtrak at 1-800-USA-RAIL.

And don't let a little bad weather come between you and Chicago.

If a minority errs, the whole race sometimes is stigmatized, said Dr. Alvin Poussaint Tuesday in the Union Grand Ballroom.

Poussaint fights black stereotypes

By MELANIE ANDERSON
Staff writer

Dr. Alvin Poussaint, noted author, educator, psychiatrist and social critic spoke Tuesday night to about 100 people in the Union Grand Ballroom about black images and stereotypes.

Poussaint, the script consultant for "The Cosby Show," described the term "black," as being a widely used adjective when referring to a colored person. As an example, he referred to Washington Redskins quarterback Doug Williams.

"The media hounded Doug Williams about being the first black quarterback, putting an extra burden on him," he said, also adding the Rev. Jesse Jackson is referred to as the "black candidate," or the black candidate that can't win.

Poussaint quoted a statement Jackson said about winning: "I might lose but I could also win. If I don't run I'm guaranteed to lose."

Poussaint added his own formula for winning. "The mentality that moves us forward is the one that says 'yes I can.'"

Poussaint said minority groups must shoulder the burden of having to prove themselves. He said minorities are often times labeled as being not good enough for the job.

Reagan makes pitch for Contra aid

Critical vote to take place on House floor Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan made a last-ditch effort to salvage his $36.2 million aid package for the Contra rebels on Tuesday by promising to release money for arms and ammunition only if Congress agrees.

In an Oval Office address shunned by three major television networks, Reagan argued that Wednesday's vote in the House amounted to nothing less than "win or lose for peace and freedom. It is yes or no to America's national security."

"Our support is needed now—tomorrow will be too late," Reagan said, pleading support for the Contras' battle against the leftist government of Nicaragua.

It was unclear whether Reagan's last-minute maneuver would sway those undecided about Wednesday's crucial vote. Prior to the evening speech, Democratic leaders had said the president was likely to lose.

"I think there's going to be a bipartisan group tomorrow against this proposal," said House Majority Leader Thomas Foley, D-Wash.

But Reagan argued that the Contras represented the last hope to prevent the spread of communism in Central America and must not be abandoned.

"If we cut off aid to the freedom fighters, then the Sandinistas can go back to their old ways," Reagan said.

Initially, Reagan proposed that the plan's $3.8 million for weapons would be held back until at least March 31. It would be released only if he found that no cease-fire had been achieved and the Sandinistas weren't abiding by their promises for democratic reform.

"If Congress adopts such a resolution within 10 days. . . then I will honor this action and withhold deliveries of ammunition in this package."

—President Reagan

In his address, he changed the terms in an attempt to win over wavering lawmakers. He proposed that both houses of Congress decide within a 10-day period whether they agreed with him or not on the necessity for the military aid. Such a resolution is usually considered non-binding by the Congress, but the president pledged to abide by it.

"If Congress adopts such a resolution within 10 days. . . then I will honor this action and withhold deliveries of ammunition in this package," Reagan said.

In the Democratic response written before Reagan's speech, Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., said it was time for the United States "to support the Central American peace process, to put the Sandinistas to the test, and to take risks for peace."

Hamilton, who gained national attention as chairman of the House Iran-Contra investigating committee last year, acknowledged that the Nicaraguan government could renege on the promises to restore civil liberties. "But if they do, they will be rejecting a peace plan their neighbors endorse," he said. "Their bad faith will be clear, and Americans will be unified against them."

Hamilton said Reagan's request "is not enough to win the war. But as the Central American presidents have made clear, it is enough to sabotage peace."

Reagan's speech was not carried by three of the four major television networks, who decided that Reagan was likely to say little that was new. Only the Cable News Network broadcast the address.

The lack of network attention aroused the ire of the White House chief of staff. Howard H. Baker criticized ABC, NBC, and CBS, saying the decision interferes with the "traditional right" of presidents to communicate with the American people.

"The decision. . . represents an attempt to substitute their judgment for that of the president on what the country should have the opportunity to hear," Baker said in a written statement.

Squeeze tickets set to go on sale Monday at Union

By KIM MIKUS
Activities editor

Students may have to "squeeze" in line when tickets for the spring concert go on sale at 9 a.m. Monday at the University Union Box Office.

British pop-band Squeeze is scheduled to appear at Eastern March 6 after Eastern outbid five other schools for the band, said Diane Ducey, University Board concert committee chair.

On Monday the box office will be open to students, who must present a valid ID to purchase the $9 tickets. The box office will be open until 3 p.m.

The box office will be open Tuesday to "everyone else," Ducey said.

Ducey said the ticket price was set at $9 after the concert committee figured 60 percent of the tickets would sell. "It's a risk we have to take," she added.

There will be 5,600 seats for the show, Ducey noted.

UB placed a bid of $17,500 and the show includes about "$10,000 more for production and advertising," Ducey said.

There is reserved seating for the show, Ducey said. "The earlier students buy their tickets, the better seat they will get," she noted.

Visa and Master Card are accepted by the Union Box Office, Ducey noted.

"There are a lot of little problems in the contract that we'll (concert committee) have to work out" with the British quintet's contract, Ducey said.

"They (Squeeze) wanted us to provide a lot of alcoholic beverages for the show," Ducey said. She noted the band included Australian and Mexican beer on its list.

Eastern does not allow alcohol at performances by either the performers or the audience.

Opening for Squeeze will be 10,000 Maniacs.

Ducey said a contract for 10,000 Maniacs is supposed to arrive Wednesday.

In addition, the concert committee is continuing talk about a second concert, which would take place at the end of April, Ducey noted.

"Most everyone's wrapped up in Squeeze right now," Ducey said. "So, I'll be drinking black coffee in bed till this is all over," she added, quoting from one of the band's more popular tunes.

Police Chief has no leads to assailant

There are no new leads in the investigation of an attack that took place last Tuesday outside Coleman Hall, said Campus Police Chief Tom Larson.

A 20-year-old woman was attacked by an unknown assailant that she described as a white male, 5 feet 9 inches tall, 180 pounds, and wearing a brown jacket, blue jeans and a brown ski mask.

"It doesn't look promising," Larson said.

The victim did not indicate if her attacker was armed or not.

Earlier Tuesday, a Humboldt bank was robbed by a man of similar description.

"As to my knowledge, the investigation has shown no link between the two crimes," Larson said.

"If the sheriff's department finds a tie (between the crimes), my office would be informed."

More Contra aid will only add fuel to the fire

The sounds of crying babies, children and women are falling upon deaf ears in the White House.

The Reagan Administration is determined to pass funding for the Nicaraguan Contra rebels. This is seemingly in response to Sandinista leader Daniel Ortega's attempts to meet with the Contras and come up with a peaceful settlement.

Both Sandinista and Contra forces have been responsible for acts of violence to civilians during their country's revolution. Adding fuel to the fire by supplying "non-lethal aid" to the Contra rebels will not help ease the suffering that is occurring in this Central American nation.

Elliot Abrams, undersecretary of state for Central American affairs, has said the aid the United States supplies to the Contras gives the Sandinistas incentive to come to the peace talks. But, the administration has made it clear that the only peace plan they would accept is one abolishing the Sandinistas.

The administration has repeatedly rejected (through the Contras) any conditions for peace the Sandinistas have requested. If our government wants peace, its reluctance to let the two sides involved negotiate is a terrible way to demonstrate it.

Ortega, for whatever reasons, seems willing to end the bloodshed, but our country wants to assure the downfall of the government.

This is a step in the right direction, it may be a trick, but the only way to find out is to reach some agreement. The amount of lives being lost while Reagan is battling with Congress is ridiculous.

Finding ways, other than pumping money into the Contras, to bring the war in Nicaragua to an end should be a more important issue than what is occurring in Washington.

But, similar circumstances led to a 30-year involvement in another part of the world and that costs us dearly.

New clap could improve on old speech

There are a few kinds of people in this world—those who willingly watch President Reagan's televised speeches and those who grab the remote control in a mad frenzy in an effort to find anything to watch on TV, even if it means watching reruns of "Animal Kingdom"—in Spanish.

The reason many choose not to watch the televised speeches isn't because of their entertainment value—for there are few people who are more entertaining than Ronnie.

Except for maybe Tony Orlando (sans Dawn) on "Win, Lose or Draw."

But, Reagan's advisers, or perhaps the geniuses from network television who masterminded the idea of the laugh track, have tried to garner that last bit of the population that doesn't have a satellite dish with 80 billion channels to switch to at the sight of the president's powdered face glowing with a brilliant scheme.

It's the clap.

No, the idea is not to inflict the Congress and the national viewing audience with a gut-wrenching venereal disease, rather to have everyone seated in the House clap at every 10-second interval as if what he was saying was actually important.

This is where Nancy comes in.

Because the members of Congress cannot count to 10 and remember to clap at the same time, Nancy holds up a large cardboard sign, which says, (I swear I am not making this up) CLAP NOW, Democrats this means you, too!

Not only does this ensure that all of the blue suits are moving their arms at the same time, but it gives Nancy something to do in between holding up cues cards for her hubby.

If you happened to miss last week's State of the

Jean Wright

Union address, it went a little like this:

Reagan: "Good evening my fellow Americans."

Applause fills the House chambers as Reagan motions the crowd to cease clapping while Nancy (camera) runs through the aisle whooping her hands over her head not unlike Jane Fonda when she got the burn in her latest aerobic videotape, "F.L.A.D.I.E.S. Need Muscle Definition, Too."

But not everybody follows Nancy subtle hints.

Take those pesky Democrats for example.

They never clap.

In fact, they make such an effort not to clap that the CIA runs around taking snapshots of all of them because they are obviously future would-be presidential assassins.

During the State of the Union address Ted Kennedy leaned over to Joe Biden (I swear I saw this) and said through cupped hands in a loud whisper, "Don't clap, only encourages him."

And the Democrats may have a point. If people continue to clap, Reagan may think people are actually listening.

Of course, the Supreme Court justices don't do either. While they attribute it to the fact that they don't want to appear to be swayed by what the president says while setting precedents, I attribute it to the fact that excessive clapping while wearing those snappy black robes causes unbearable underarm chafing.

But the whole problem can be solved rather simply. Instead of the applause, which sometimes lasts 15 seconds at a time, I suggest a different approach.

One single clap (in unison of course) would be much more rhythmical. Besides, it would cut the time of the speech in half.

The single clap would ring through the chambers of an earthy beat. Then Ronnie could give his speech in rap backed up by RUN DMC.

There, I've done my part to increase Reagan's speech viewership. Now someone just has to find something for Nancy to do.

Your turn

Food service's menu not meant as racial

Editor:

This is in response to the two men who wrote to the editor on Jan. 27 that they were offended by the "racial slurs" in the Gregg Triad food service. I am writing to set the record straight.

First, the term "polack (sic) wieners" was not meant to be racial or offensive. However, your response was racial and offensive. According to the workers who served you that night, you did not ask for "nigger fried chicken" or "spic tacos" as you claim. Your attempt at whimsical sarcasm has failed. Instead, you asked for "nigger potatoes" then mumbled profanities at the workers as you walked away (brave of you).

Anyone who has ever worked in the Triad food service can attest to its relaxed atmosphere. The workers who put up the sign (note: not the entire "Gregg staff") were simply trying to add a sparkle of humor to an otherwise mundane job. Perhaps they should have thought of the possibility that someone would be offended. However, in an environment where no racism is present, no one thinks of whether something they say will racially offend another.

Eric and Larry, I have spoken to several minority workers in the Triad. Each has agreed: there is no racial prejudice here. This incident has shown the opposite. The Triad food service workers are all outraged at your accusations.

I am sorry to disappoint you, but racism is not a "prevailing attitude among Eastern students." Yes, prejudice does exist at Eastern. Measures are being taken to eradicate the problem and more work needs to be done. However, some degree of prejudice exists in everyone, so get off of your high horse.

You have promoted the race issue at a time when we should be trying to dissolve it. I do not mean we should overlook a problem when it exists, but why start trouble where there was none? You turned "polack (sic) wieners" into "nigger potatoes! That is outrageous! That is offensive.

Neither one of you is even Polish! I don't get it. Perhaps the problem does not stem from the racial-slur incident. My theory is that you two have a personal problem with Triad food service workers and are trying to vent your frustrations through the pretense of prejudice. Men, Weller Hall is not your bedroom. Gregg Triad food service is not your dining room. These are public areas for all residents to use, but we have rules.

Were you really offended by the sign or does the problem go deeper than that? I suggest you figure that out.

Support given for nuclear dump site

By ERIC WEDEKING
Senior reporter

Last month, a proposed low-level nuclear dump facility was rejected by a 4-3 vote by Clark County board members.

But one Clark County community, Martinsville, is going against a tide of county government and resident opposition by voicing support for the proposed state-funded nuclear dump.

"I think there's a lot of benefits" to having a nuclear dump, said Martinsville Mayor Truman Dean.

Clark County, which adjoins Coles County to the southeast, killed any chance, short of a court order, governor's signature or General Assembly vote, the Illinois Department of Nuclear Safety had for installing a nuclear dump site in Clark County.

But Dean said with Martinsville ignoring the county vote, the small community would realize a considerable increase in tax revenues and jobs for a town with only two small industries and a population of 1,300.

Dean said an increase in tax revenues was "unbelievable," while looking at about $4 million in possible initial revenues.

"That's a lot of money," he said. "It's really hard to visualize how big a boost that facility would be to a town of this size."

"We're not used to having any money," he added.

When compared with the highest yearly budget of $400,000, Dean said, Martinsville could greatly benefit from the expected $1 million in yearly dump fees the city would garner, not including property tax revenues to education and the jobs the facility would create.

Other Clark County communities voiced strong opposition concerning the nuclear dump site, citing safety as a prime concern. But Dean said their fears were unwarranted.

"They didn't bother to inform themselves," Dean said. "We (the Martinsville City Council) just sat back and waited awhile. We didn't get panicky about it or talk about glowing green."

Dean said he and fellow council members have been patient with state officials in letting them furnish information about the nuclear dump facility. Some have even gone on tours of a facility in South Carolina.

Clark County Home Economist Beverly Combs said although the nuclear dump site is a "dead issue with the county board," the final say will come with "what the (state) government wants."

Combs said county residents may have panicked in opposing the facility.

"It seems like it (opposition) started snowballing so fast," Combs said.

"From what I hear, it's fear of the unknown and it's trust," she said. "How do we know they (state government) won't change their mind five or 10 years down the road?"

Strong opposition has been voiced by many county residents, said Combs.

Council approves Haz-Stor grant

By MIKE STEINER
Staff writer

The Charleston City Council opened the door for a new city industry at its Tuesday night meeting when it approved an economic development grant of $4,170.93 for Haz-Stor, a company that manufactures storage facilities for hazardous materials.

Prior to the meeting, an industrial open house was held at the Haz-Stor facility, located at 851 North Fifth Street.

The open house included a welcome to the new industry from Mayor Murray Choate, an explanation by Haz-Stor president Art Stevens as to what work will be done at the plant, and a tour of the facility, which is expected to be open and running within one year.

Stevens described the Haz-Stor products as "small protective structures that provide safe on-site storage for hazardous materials."

"These units would be used by industrial or commercial companies and have two applications—either for the storage of hazardous waste produced by the facility or for the storage of hazardous materials the company uses for production," Stevens said.

The open house was attended by about 150 people. Stevens noted that the good turnout was an indication of the community's interest in the potential for new business. "I think we can count on complete support from the community," Stevens said.

In other council meeting happenings, the council approved a bid to purchase two police cars from Grimes Motors, 1019 Madison.

Commissioner Bruce Scism said the cars would be purchased for about $12,000 each.

An amending ordinance allowing for taxicabs to operate in Charleston was passed. The city council said there has been some interest in this area from prospective licensees.

Lack of funding attributed to image

By JEFF SMITH
Staff writer

Faculty Senate members determined Tuesday the state legislature's negative image of colleges, faculty in particular, is a main reason legislators are reluctant to increase funds for higher education.

Robert Whittenbarger, Eastern's representative to the Illinois Board of Higher Education Faculty Advisory Committee, said, "Legislators have an image of (faculty) as being underworked and overpaid."

Whittenbarger said this image of faculty members has made them unwilling to raise the income tax to aid higher education.

"Legislators are reluctant to increase taxes because they say 75 percent of money for education goes to pay (faculty salaries)," he said.

Some senators said the public also perceives faculty as overpaid and underworked.

Whittenbarger said a reason for the poor image of professors is a lack of communication between the state universities and the public and state legislature.

However, Senator Kipp Kruse said legislators should know how much faculty members work because the legislators once attended college.

Senator Andy McNitt added, "Many of them were professors at colleges."

Senator Sharon Bartling said the faculty could improve its image by bringing legislators on the campuses to show them what professors do.

Bartling suggested starting a post-card campaign in which professors and possibly students would voice support for increasing the income tax to aid higher education.

In addition, Whittenbarger introduced statistics ranking all states' appropriations for higher education.

According to one statistic, Illinois ranks 41st in average percentage change in money received for higher education from the 1977 fall semester to the 1987 fall semester.

Illinois' percentage, 100, is less than half any of the top 10 schools' percentages.

Another statistic lists Illinois 47th in average percentage change in appropriations from fiscal year 1987 to 1988 with a negative 4.2 percent. The highest increase given for one state is 12.3 percent.

Some senators attributed Illinois' low rank in higher education funding to Gov. Jim Thompson's stand against increasing education appropriations.

McNitt said Illinois governors have been non-supportive of education since the 1960s.

Bartling noted governors at other states, meanwhile, have pressed for education reforms.

Chair

the difference, Reed said.

"If we had no student fee support at all, the principle revenue-replacing device would be the sale of the yearbook," Reed said; adding a yearbook the size of the Warbler would cost about $20.

Glenn Robinson, student publications business manager, said students pay $4.40 of the full cost of the Warbler, which is projected to make $30,000 this year.

Robinson said Warbler revenue from sales and services compensates for the other $16.60. If Student Publications is without student fee support, students would have to pay the full price.

"He's (Righter) right in that we (Student Publications) could operate, but we'd have to cut back on services," Reed said.

He also said a cutback in services would result in a smaller newspaper to make money. If Student Publications had to go out on its own, the The Daily Eastern News' advertising ratio would increase "dramatically," Reed said.

He noted whereas the average college newspaper in Illinois has 58 to 60 percent advertising, the News only has 42 percent.

Last spring Reed requested Rives remove Student Publications from AB jurisdiction. "I have requested for years that Student Publications should be set up as a separate activity, just as the Intercollegiate Athletic Board is—for similar but more compelling reasons," he said.

Reed added the rest of the program boards under AB "are primarily fee driven. We are primarily revenue driven."

In addition to Student Publications, AB allocates student fees to five program boards: itself, Players, Sports and Recreation, Student Senate and the University Board.

What AB passes goes through the Student Senate, Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, and Eastern President Stan Rives for final approval.

Righter has said he wants a conference with Rives on the matter.

"I've had no formal proposal to do it," Williams said. "I'm neutral on it."

"At this point, it is up to AB members to decide whether Student Publications should be removed from AB jurisdiction," said AB Chair Craig Lange.

Lange said Student Publications can support itself independently of student fees, but he agreed it could have an adverse effect on Warbler prices.

stay unchanged.

Henneman said he offered floor plans to BZAP as early as February 1987, which showed each unit having five beds.

"The city approved for us to have five people per unit when they gave us the zoning and building permit," Henneman said. "They (the city) knew our intentions and were in complete agreement."

"But when we opened up the building, they took a different turn and changed their mind," Henneman said. "It is hard for me to believe. It certainly is not fair, but we are trying to work things out. Life is too short."

Henneman said if his firm had intended for three people to live in each unit, it would have built smaller units.

In the future, Henneman said, the firm will look into having the land re-zoned to allow five people in each unit.

"It takes a very long time to investigate all that," Henneman said. "We are looking up that (land rezoning) right now (The complex) is obviously designed to have five people per unit. I hope we can come to some kind of resolve with them (city)."

In addition, Henneman said "I feel like we are trying to run an upstanding operation. We are providing the students with good housing."

Financial Aid Week too late for students, say officials

By MATT HORTENSTINE
Staff writer

Although this is the fifth annual Financial Aid Awareness Week, area officials have decided not to prepare for it, saying it is late to start looking for scholarships.

"It's a little bit late to start looking for scholarships and financial aid now," said Harold Hawkins, Charleston High School guidance counselor, who isn't planning to coordinate any programs during the awareness week.

"Most seniors have already turned in their financial aid forms as well as private scholarship applications, so the program probably won't help them."

Ross Jett, financial aid director at Lake Land College, said that Lake Land didn't plan "anything special this week" because its financial aid programs are held during the fall months.

"We have scheduled programs for our feeder high schools in the fall, so the area high schools probably won't take much notice of the awareness week," Jett said. "Most college-bound seniors have already learned about the financial aid process."

He said that awareness week is a state-wide effort to increase the awareness of high school students.

The program, proclaimed by Gov. James R. Thompson, is intended to stress Illinois' commitment to higher education by supplying financial aid information to perspective Illinois college students, said Bob J. Clement, director of the Illinois State Scholarship Commission.

Clement said the program doesn't just focus on high school seniors but on parents and younger students.

"With the rising cost of education, people have got to start planning now for their children's education."

"There are more students going on to college after high school, but the level of financial aid has remained the same," he said.

But Eastern's financial aid department doesn't plan to observe the awareness week either.

"The awareness week has been an annual event for the past four or five years. But it's up to the institution to observe it," he said.

Flynn said the state used to promote the program via television, newspaper and radio advertising. However, the response of the program was less than adequate.

However, Eastern will still accept applications until April 15.

Lip sync contest to return; show will open with band

By KRISTEN RASMUSSEN
Staff writer

Creativity, coordination and lip sync accuracy are what judges will be looking for at the Subway's second annual lip sync contest at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Subway, said Subway Coordinator Gina Moon.

Moon said the opening band "Private Mission" will kick off the evening with a performance at 8 p.m.

While the band is playing, students will be able to sign up for the lip sync contest.

"I expect things to go really well," Moon said.

The contestants will be allowed to use any songs, costumes, or props for their acts, said Moon.

"We want everyone to give us their best performance," said Moon.

Orchestra to perform Thursday

By FELICIA FULKS
Staff writer

The Chicago Chamber Brass communicates with their audience while performing, said Janelle Limper, University Board Performing Arts Coordinator.

The Chicago Chamber Brass, "A Tradition of Excellence," will perform 8 p.m. Thursday in the Union Grand Ballroom.

Ticket prices are $3 for students with an I.D.

Limper said that she saw the group when she was at a National Association for Campus Activities convention last year. "They were the only act that received a standing ovation," Limper said.

The Chicago Chamber Brass plays mostly classical music, Limper noted. She added that many students think that classical is boring.

"The brass makes it really exciting to listen to. Usually brass goes over well," Limper said.

Last year University Board conducted a phone survey on what musicians students would like to hear at Eastern. "We had some classical, jazz and gospel, but the Chicago Chamber Brass came up on top," Limper said.

Music students tend to like the classical performances more than other students, Limper noted.

Some highlights of their performance will include "Stars and Stripes" and "Pictures at an Exhibition."

Senate to discuss housing for break

RUSSELL STARE
Comment editor

A resolution asking that the Student Senate remain open during spring and fall breaks will be brought before the Student Senate at its regular meeting 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Station Arcola-Tuscola room.

Student Senate Speaker Wasetis said Senator Stuckemeyer authored the resolution.

The resolution suggests a per night fee would be an acceptable rate to charge students who are unable to return home for break.

In other business, Wasetis will present for approval the names of senators chosen by Student Body President Deb Camren to attend the conference on Student Government Associations.

Senators Andrea Pyle, Mike Clark and Patty Kennedy will be attending the conference at Texas A & M University from Feb. 27 to March 1.

The Senate must approve the money being spent to fund the senators to the conference, Wasetis said.

The money's already in the budget," she noted. "It just has to be approved that the budget is what it's being used for."

Also, Financial Vice President Craig Lange said the fiscal year 1988-1989 budget for senate will be presented for approval before being submitted to the Apportionment Board.

Lange said figures were being typed and would be available Wednesday. He said the new budget would be $110 less than the 1987-1988 budget.

In addition, a letter of thanks from Lt. Gov. George Ryan will be read by Wasetis. In it, Wasetis said, Ryan states it is good that future leaders are interested in the issues and functions of government.

Wasetis will also discuss applications for vacant senate seats. She said six candidates have applied for the three at-large positions open.

Only two applications have been returned for the three available off-campus positions, Wasetis said.

Wasetis said she will announce the closing of the at-large applications and that off-campus applications will be accepted through Monday. The Senate has until the end of the fifth week of the semester to fill any vacancies from the preceding semester.

Executive Vice President Trish Nusbaum said she has asked Camren to discuss suggestion boxes being placed in residence halls. She said the boxes have been approved by hall councils but must get senate approval.

Program looks for notoriety

By RANA WOODSON
Staff writer

Even though Affirmative Action is a valuable program at Eastern, it appears few students are aware of its use.

"Affirmative Action is a proactive approach to equal opportunity," said Affirmative Action Director Judith Anderson.

In 1973, the Affirmative Action program was opened on Eastern's campus on a part-time basis. It became a full-time program in the fall of 1985.

And, though the program has been on campus for 15 years, few students recognize it.

Freshman Tim Decamp, recreation major, said he had never heard of the Affirmative Action program. However, he did voice support for its cause.

"Equality should be expressed in every aspect," Decamp said.

Sophomore Julie Bergeson, elementary education major, knew the program existed, though not on Eastern's campus.

"It's good to know that there's help out there when you need it," Bergeson said. "A program like this promotes equality."

Students to host Malaysian Night

By ALI DASHTI
Staff writer

The Association of International Students will be presenting a Malaysian Night for students and faculty members Saturday at the Wesley Foundation, 2202 S. Fourth St.

"The idea is to introduce cuisine of different countries to students, faculty and the college community," said Feza Pehliven an exchange student from Turkey, and president of AIS.

"It is a new idea on campus," said Eliza Omer an exchange student from Malaysia, and a political science graduate student.

She added that the purpose behind the Malaysian Night is to allow people to experience Malaysia and its culture.

Michael Konstantinov, an economics graduate student from West Germany, said the purpose of the event is "to show (the students) there are some foreign students on campus, and exchange cultural ideas between American and Malaysians."

Malaysia is located in southeast Asia, and Kuala Lumpur is the capital. The Malaysian Night will include spicy food, slides, and a mini-exhibition about Malaysia.

"Most Americans don't know very much about Malaysia," Konstantinov added.

All students are welcome, but tickets are limited. The ticket cost is $5 for students and $8 for non-students.

Poltergeist star Heather O'Rourke dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Heather O'Rourke, the angelic-looking child actress who warned "They're heeere!" and "They're baaaack!" in the Poltergeist movies died after an apparent bout with the flu, her manager said Tuesday. She was 12.

Heather died Monday while being rushed to Children's Hospital in San Diego, her manager, Mike Meyer, said.

"I'm not clear on the cause of death. I was told it was related to sickness she suffered during Poltergeist III," Meyer said.

"Sunday they thought she had the flu."

The golden-haired girl became a star in the true Hollywood fashion, discovered by producer Steven Spielberg at age 5 as she sat in an MGM commissary with her sister Tammy.

She went on to star in all three Poltergeist films and was a familiar character on television's Happy Days, Webster and Still the Beaver.

She is the second actress from the Poltergeist movies to die unexpectedly. Dominique Dunne, who played a teen-age daughter in the original, was strangled in October 1982.

Sportsvision to carry Gateway tourney game

DOUG SUMMERS / Staff photographer

Lady Panther center Laura Mull shoots a jumper against freshman forward Stacy Friedrich during Tuesday's practice. Eastern will next be in action Thursday at Drake.

Basketball Notebook/Barry Bottino

The Gateway Conference women's basketball tournament has hit the big time, so to speak.

Sportsvision cable television network of Chicago has agreed to televise the final of the conference tournament live on March 9.

Therefore, if the Lady Panthers finish with the best regular season record in the Gateway (they are currently in a three-way first place tie at 9-2), they will host the tourney and Sportsvision. The game will be televised live at 9 p.m.

Perkes' domination

In her last three meetings versus Drake University (which the Lady Panthers will meet Thursday in Des Moines, Iowa), Eastern sophomore guard Barb Perkes has pumped in 58 points.

The Trenton, Ill., native led the Lady Panthers Jan. 9 with 24 points in a 60-57 Lady Panther win.

Overall, Perkes leads Eastern with 12.6 points per game although Drake leads the series between the two schools 73-58.

Troubled travel plans

With the Iowa presidential caucuses beginning Monday, Eastern's women's basketball team was lucky to find an open hotel in the Des Moines area.

"They (Drake) called us last summer," said Coach Barbara Hilke, "and they told us that we better get our reservations in."

The Lady Panthers experienced the same problem four years ago, according to Hilke. "We actually stayed on the same (hotel) floor as some of the presidential candidates," Hilke said. "There was security all over the place."

Frosh on fire

With Eastern's five-game homestand concluded Saturday with an 80-57 win over Western Illinois, Coach Barbara Hilke has found a shining star in freshman forward Stacy Friedrich.

"She's doing a super job us," said Hilke after Friedrich's 14-point performance in a 18 minutes of playing against the Westerwinds.

The Lebanon, Ill., native began the homestand with a career-high 19 points in a 76 loss to Indiana State, tallied 13 points and the season-high seven rebounds in an 81-61 win over Illinois State.

Hittin' the road

All three Gateway Conference leaders will be hitting the road for weekend contests.

Eastern (15-4 overall, 9-2 the league) will play at Drake (6-5, 9-10) Thursday and Northern Iowa (1-10, 5-1) Saturday.

Co-leader Indiana State (16-3) will play at Wichita State (4-6, 7-11) and Southern Missouri (4-6, 7-11) on Saturday. Southern Illinois (9-2, 1-1) will play at Northern Iowa at Drake.

The Panthers will return to Lantz Gym on Feb. 11 to face Wichita State.

Mackovic, Tippet out in front for Illinois football coaching slot

CHAMPAIGN (AP)—University of Illinois officials agreed to select a new football coach on Tuesday, as leaked reports indicated Athletic Director Neale Stoner had decided to recommend former Kansas City Chiefs Coach John Mackovic. Hopefully, there will be an announcement Wednesday of the new coach, said information director Bennett.

Champaign-Urbana News-Gazette and the Chicago Times reported Tuesday Stoner had decided to recommend Mackovic, a 21-year veteran with both collegiate and professional coaching experience.

Stoner did not immediately return a Tuesday telephone call from this office.

The News-Gazette reported Mackovic was determined to win approval of Mackovic, though defensive coordinator Howard Tippet also had some support.

Former Northwestern Coachennis Green arrived Tuesday in an interview and Ohio State assistant Jim Colletto also was interviewed for the job, the newspaper said.

Stoner was to make his recommendation at a meeting of the Athletic Association board Tuesday night, though Chancellor Morton Weir said he and UI President Stanley Ikenberry, along with the Board of Trustees, would have to approve any selection.

"I haven't changed," said Weir. "I want someone who has had a successful career as a coach and has done that without any kind of blemish on his record."

Illinois accepted the resignation of eight-year veteran Coach Mike White on Jan. 18 after charges by the NCAA and the university of recruiting violations. The Illini had been placed on probation in 1984 for a long list of infractions.

"If we're going to be self-sustaining financially, the football coach is our most important asset," Stoner said in an earlier interview.

"We have a football program in which everything is in place for the new coach to be successful over a long period of time."

Mackovic, 44, has been out of football since his dismissal by the Chiefs in 1986 after a 35-15 loss to the New York Jets in a playoff game. The Chiefs were 10-6 that season and made their first playoff appearance in 15 years.

The Wake Forest graduate began his coaching career as an assistant at Miami of Ohio in 1965 and by 1977 had logged coaching stints at San Jose State, Army, Arizona, and Purdue.

Mackovic's first head coaching job came in 1978 at Wake Forest. The following year, the Demon Deacons were 8-3 and earned a bid to the Tangerine Bowl.

He moved into pro football in 1980, coaching the quarterbacks for the Dallas Cowboys for three years before accepting the top job with the Chiefs.

Tippet, who came to the Illini a year ago from the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, said Mackovic had strong support from players, high school coaches in the state and Illinois assistant coaches, and could keep some key recruits and staff members if he got the job.

"I'm going to come back and finish getting my degree (in criminal justice)," Tillotson said. "I will keep myself in shape for the next year for a job or in case an opening would occur."

Hamke, who will be most remembered for his 58-yard, game-winning field goal against Northern Iowa in the 1986 Homecoming game, earned Gateway first-team All-Conference honors this season and set a school record with 15 field goals this season, surpassing the old record of 14 set by Henry Castellanos in 1983.

Tillotson earned Gateway second-team All-Conference honors, finishing second among league punters.

Tillotson recorded 65 punts for a total of 2,577 yards for an average of 39.6.

Tillotson's most impressive statistic lies in the fact that his punting unit was ranked third in net yards in Division I-AA.

"I'm real pleased about that," said Tillotson. "I ended up having the same net average as Ohio State punter Tom Tupa."

Congratulations

Eastern men's spiker club takes Wheaton title

By DINO TIBERI
Staff writer

The trip up to Wheaton College proved to be a profitable one for Eastern's men's volleyball club, as it placed two teams in the top five in the Wheaton College tournament.

Eastern's "A" team won the championship, while the "B" team took fifth place in the tournament, which included teams from Wheaton College, Illinois State, Northern Illinois, Grand Valley State and Moody Bible College.

Play consisted of two three-team pools and one four-team pool, in which the top two from each pool advanced to the final round of single elimination play. The teams are then seeded for the final round based on their pool results.

Both of Eastern's teams advanced to the final round, with identical records of 4-2. The "A" team was seeded fifth, while the "B" team was seeded in the sixth slot. ISU's "A" team was the number one seed.

The "B" team for Eastern had a rough time of it in the first match, as it was eliminated by the ISU "B" team by scores of 11-8, 13-15, 11-5, finishing in fifth place.

Eastern's "A" team had a little better fortune in the final round, as it won the opening match over Grand Valley State by the scores of 11-3, 11-6.

The semi-final match was against the number one seeded team from ISU, and Eastern won by the scores of 15-5, 15-8, which sent them into the championship match against the ISU "B" team.

Eastern won the first game of the championship by a score of 15-8, and then took the second game by a score of 16-14 to win the title.

Club president Ron Kellum was very pleased with the outcome of the match, especially since the team was without two key players because of injuries.

"To go up there and win the way we did was great (coming from the fifth seed)," Kellum said. "It was a total team effort," he added.

The club is currently a member of the Midwest Intercollegiate Volleyball Association, which is comprised of 23 club teams and four varsity teams. Eastern is in a three-team division along with ISU and Quincy College, Kellum said.

The club looks to be very competitive in league play this year according to Kellum. "We will be vying for the top spot in the league," Kellum said. "This year we finally have the needed to do well."

Some of the other teams are in the club division in the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Notre Dame, Michigan State and University of Michigan.

Kellum said there are members involved with club and there no real star players, but it takes a team effort, we don't have one player who carries whole team."

The club was formed in and currently is sponsored by Lloyd Ivey, who is president of The Mitek Group.

MCU commisioner Ferzacca will step down

AND LINDQUIST

"Frosty" Ferzacca, the son of Mid-Continent Athletics' only commissioner since the league's inception in 1982, has announced that he will retire from his position effective February 1, 1988.

Ferzacca, 64, said his decision to step down from the position was linked to the AMCUC's choice of Delegate's choice to move league headquarters to a metropolitan area for the 1988-89 year.

His home is in Green Bay, Wisconsin (where AMCUC is currently located)," Ferzacca said. "I'm not moving my secretary is not moving."

Ferzacca said he is unsure if a move to a larger market is in the cards for the conference.

"I have mixed feelings," Ferzacca said. "With today's AP (Associated Press) and other media connections, location is not that important. You could run a conference out of Charleston."

While a new site for the league headquarters has not been determined, Ferzacca said Chicago is a location that is being heavily considered by AMCUC delegates.

"They want more exposure in a big city," he said. "My concern is that our teams would be in competition with established universities such as Notre Dame, DePaul, Loyola and Big Ten schools."

During Ferzacca's five-year tenure with the AMCUC, the conference achieved automatic qualification to the NCAA Basketball tournament, to which the league will send its first automatic qualifier in March.

"I think our biggest problem was identity," Ferzacca said.

"The names of our schools weren't immediately recognized. The way to gain identity is to win," he continued. "Thanks go to Cleveland State and Southwest Missouri State for giving us credibility right off the bat."

CSU and SMSU gained at-large berths to the NCAA basketball tournament the past two seasons along with Cleveland State's appearance in the post-season National Invitation Tournament last season.

Ferzacca said the highlight of his tenure was Cleveland State's 83-79 victory over Indiana in the 1986 NCAA tourney.

"That was a big step for the AMCUC," he said. "When Indiana was beat, our telephone was ringing off the hook from media wondering about our conference."

As for the league's future, the University of Illinois-Chicago is in charge of officially picking the new AMCUC headquarters, while a committee from Southwest Missouri State will pick Ferzacca's successor.

Ferzacca said his only regret is that the AMCUC did not decide to stay in Green Bay one more year.

"My goal was to have NCAA tournament automatic qualifiers in three sports," he said. "Michael Madsen (AMCUC information director) has worked very hard with baseball and soccer and I think we're within a year of a bid in those sports."

Ferzacca, whose first job was football coach at Green Bay West High School, has had a storied career in the sporting world.

After 17 years at Green Bay West, Ferzacca coached Marquette University football, spent a year in the front office of the Green Bay Packers, was athletic director at Northern Michigan for nine years and Eastern Michigan for eight years.

When the AMCUC was being formed by school athletic directors, Ferzacca, who had been in semi-retirement, was drafted to be commissioner and moved the league from Division II to NCAA Division I.

"He was the man we needed," Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson said. "He gave leadership to eight schools who weren't really sure what direction they were headed."

Ferzacca, who lives in Green Bay with his wife Marian, said he has been offered a position in the sports field, though he would not elaborate.

"I've always had a job," said the 64-year old Ferzacca. "I'm a '38' 64. Chronological age doesn't matter, it's the person."

Bears to grant kickers Ehmke, Tillotson tryout

By CHUCK MUELLER
Staff writer

Everyone who plays college football dreams of playing in the pro ranks. And that dream has become one step closer for two Eastern prospects.

Placekicker Rich Ehmke and punter Steve Tillotson have entered their names into the professional circles and in return have been invited to a workout with the Chicago Bears this month that will be conducted in Charleston.

"The Bears organization contacted us through our agent (Mike Mcleod of Madison, Wis.) and were interested in coming down to check us out," Ehmke said.

"They'll probably have me punting, checking my distance, hangtime and how quickly I get the ball off—basic things like that," Tillotson said. "They told us to be ready in February."

The possible road to professional football has taken different routes for both players, however.

Ehmke began circulating his talents last summer in workouts with the St. Louis Cardinal kickers at their summer training camp in Charleston.

"When I was down here this summer working out with the Cardinals I got in touch with Cardinal scouting director Larry Wilson," Ehmke said. "We have kept in touch all season long and are working on a workout date."

Ehmke continued to sell himself over Christmas break at his home in California.

"Over Christmas I spent some time checking out my agent," said Ehmke, who also worked out with the Los Angeles Raiders during that time.

On the other hand, Tillotson's possible path to the pros has just begun.

"Rich and I got in contact with our agent (Mcleod) because he saw our names on the top 500 seniors list," Tillotson said. "The list is compiled from all the collegiate divisions in the country."

Under the terms of the contract, if the two are signed and play for an entire year, Mcleod will receive five percent of their first year of pay.

According to Tillotson, if a player only plays for one week, Mcleod's take would be less than five percent.

Under the stipulations of the contract, Mcleod will receive three and one half percent for the second year and three percent for the third year of the three-year deal, said Tillotson.

"I'm working on finishing my resume, which gives the teams more information about me," Tillotson said. "Once that is circulated by my agent, I should be contacted by more teams."

Ehmke has already sent his resume to Mcleod which is being circulated around the NFL.

However, both players realize few kickers and punters get drafted by the pros, and those that do are more likely to be Division I players rather than I-AA players, as in Eastern's case.

"Most punters and kickers get signed through free agency," Ehmke said. "That's all right with me because you can look over the 28 teams and see who really needs kickers."

Tillotson disagreed though, saying, "I know I probably won't get drafted. I'd rather (be drafted) though, because the signing bonuses are much higher than free agency.

"(Eastern wide receiver and Indianapolis Colt draftee) Roy Banks's signing bonus was $100,000 last year," Tillotson said. "Free agents' bonuses are usually anywhere between $2,000 to $10,000."

Both prospects will also take different routes if they make the NFL.

"I will try to get into (Canadian Football League) Arena Football if this summer don't work out," Ehmke said.

"If I don't get picked up, I'll look for a team in the CFL." (See BEARS, page 17)

Bears coach Ditka named with three others to Hall

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago Bears Coach Mike Ditka, whose sure hands and sheer guts made him the prototype for the tight ends that followed him into the pro ranks, was humbled by his election Tuesday to the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

"I've had my day in the sun. I got to play 12 years. I've been in football for a total of 27 years, and I've been able to do things I once only dreamed about," Ditka, 48, said in a telephone interview from the team's suburban Chicago training camp.

"When I look back and think about all the fun I had playing," he added, "to have an honor like this bestowed upon me is mind-boggling."

Ditka credited National Football League pioneer and Chicago Bears owner the late George Halas with a measure of his own success.

Halas, who named Ditka the club's head coach little more than a year before the Bears owner died in 1983, also made Ditka the Bears No. 1 draft pick in 1961 out of the University of Pittsburgh.

Ditka was named NFL rookie of the year after catching 56 passes for 1,076 yards and 12 touchdowns. Three years later, he made 75 catches, a record for tight ends that stood for 16 years.

But if his receiving skills convinced other coaches to broaden the position, Ditka's fierceness as a blocker and ball-carrier enabled him to play the game at a level few others achieved.

"When I think about some of the other great tight ends, a whole host of guys come to mind—John Mackey, Jackie Smith," said Ditka.

"But in one sense, I think maybe Mr. Halas saw how much potential there was at that position for receiving and blocking. . . and I think it's fair to say I played the game pretty hard."

"The people I played against will tell you that," Ditka said.

"I asked no quarter and gave none."

The 6-foot-3, 225-pound native of Carnegie, Pa., did not miss a start in 84 games with the Bears and earned All-Pro honors his first four seasons.

In 12 seasons, he had 427 receptions for 5,812 yards and 43 touchdowns.

After being traded to the Philadelphia Eagles in 1967, Ditka finished his career with four seasons at Dallas. In 1971, he had 30 receptions and scored the clinching touchdown in the Cowboys' 24-3 victory over the Miami Dolphins in Super Bowl VI.

"I remember a coach telling me the way to play the game was to try and make your opponent an all-pro every game," Ditka said. "I took that to heart. It became a thing between me and the guy on the other side of the line."

Eastern still possible summer site for Cardinals

By MIKE FITZGERALD
Staff writer

Eastern is still being considered as a site for summer training camp by the St. Louis Cardinals football team, despite the team's impending move to Phoenix.

"I talked to them (the Cardinals) last week, and they said they were still evaluating sites. They asked if we could wait a little longer because they still consider us as a possible site," said Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson.

Curt Mosher, vice-president of administration for the Cardinals, said Tuesday in a telephone interview: "We've looked at several places, but we haven't reached any decision. That's about the size of it."

Mosher said the Cardinals have no problems with Eastern, saying that any change would be made for different reasons other than facilities.

"We have no problems with Eastern's facilities," Mosher said. "Eastern is excellent. We've trained well there in the past."

R.C. Johnson

Mosher said that the Cardinals will make a decision regarding their future but Johnson said he knows of their decision the latter part of this summer. The Cardinals football team has been a fixture on the campus over the summer of 1981.

The team's budget for housing at Eastern is $325,000, as previously reported. Their total impact on the Charleston economy is estimated at $1 million.
